much disquietude and superstitious fear to the man whose wife or concubine has thought fit to die a sudden and violent death to this world. The Chinese are indeed in great need of the humanizing influence of Christianity, and it is to be regretted that it makes such slow progress among them.
Social virtues are rare, while calous indifference to suffering among the poor, and sensual indulgence among the rich, are distinguishing features of Chinese life. There is ground enough to work upon, but the soil is hard to break.

Time now Governor of Fokien is becoming a real terror to evil-doers. A decree recently published in the Peking Gazette in response to a memorial from this energetic reformer sentences to death by decapitation a lieutenant-colonel and a captain in the Foochow army for embezzlement of soldiers' pay and selling opium to the men under their command. This sentence appears rather severe, but it must be remembered that the abuses against which Time Jui Chuan has commenced his crusade are of no ordinary kind, and have been of such long standing that nothing but stern and uncompromising measures will avail to put them down. Even the punishment of death will not suffice to prevent big Chinamen from attempting to make unlawful profits. He will dare everything in his pursuit of money, and the penalty of decapitation is often willingly incurred in his longing for the forbidden fruit. These officers are, too, usually wretchedly remunerated, and they have been accustomed from time immemorial almost to take out their pay by what "squeeze" they could make, without considering or caring much as to their legality. If they are to be kept honest, and up to the mark, they must be fairly paid. For of this possess the Spartan virtues of Titus and Lucius, and they are not much disposed to copy the example of these degenerate officials. The system is at fault. It is a pity that the Governor of Fokien does not see this. Perhaps, however, he does, and has urged measures of reform upon the slow-moving Government. His attempts to purge the public service deserve warm commendation, but it is to be regretted that they reach no farther than the surface. To be of lasting value, his reforms should go to the root of the diseases. Then there would be some hope of permanent good resulting. Custom will, however, it is to be feared, prove too powerful for him unaided to overcome. So long as the present order of things endures there is little chance apparently of any individual reformer being able to do more than mitigate the evils and corruption which surround him on every hand.

A proclamation in Saturday's Gazette sets forth that Her Majesty the Queen has approved and confirmed the ordinance No. 3 of 1876 for dissolving the Registrar-General of Criminal Functions.

We have received information from the Acting Superintendent of the Great Northern Telegraph Company that the opening of the railway between Shanghai and Woonsoo took place on the 30th June.

The Hon. the Governor has recognized previously and will further notice Mr. John H. Watson, of the United States, a native of America, who Mr. David H. Bailey, during his absence from the Colony.

At the Peak the maximum temperature during the past week, as recorded in Saturday's Gazette, was 77.0, the minimum 69.0; at the Harbour Master's Office, P. 178, the maximum was 71.0, and the minimum 77.5. 4.51 inches of rain fell during the week.

We learn that the Hon. J. Bransford, the Attorney-General, has been offered by Lord Carnarvon, and has accepted, Sir Julian Francis, his post at the Colonial Office, namely that of Assistant Under-Secretary. Sir Julian Francis has been transferred to the Foreign Office.

An adjourned inquest was held on Saturday at the Magistrate's Court, at 11 o'clock, P. M. providing the body in Third Street. Inspector Cameron and Chinese Sergeant Ah-nong went to the house to make inquiries, and for the evidence of the witnesses. The jury returned a verdict of felix et e.

It appears from Messrs. Lloyd and Cheong's London telegram that the quantity of Indian Tea imported to London from the 1st of January to the 30th of April this year was 9,852,000 as compared with 8,567,000 lbs. for the same period of 1875. The value of the tea imported for May was, according to Messrs. Watson & Co's report, 499,649 lbs., as compared with 559,833 lbs. exported in May 1875.
